MEETING ATTACK FROM SOUTH

ARMOURED squadrons and mechanised cavalry units, which had been engaged in manœuvres in the South of Ireland a fortnight ago, were in action again during the week-end.

Acting as an attacking force, they moved up through South Leinster and met a stiff resistance from Local Defence Force men, helped by cyclist regiments of the Regular Army.

The defenders on Saturday established a line curving with its bulge to the north, with the ends along east and west. For a long time on Saturday the attackers were held everywhere along this line despite their constant search for weak points in the defences. However, they discovered a bridge which had not been demolished, and getting a large part of their force across it they occupied a small town and turned the right flank of the defenders. The line was being rolled up gradually when the defenders decided to retire and establish a second front some miles to the North. During the night of Saturday the retirement was made in fine order, and yesterday the second line was facing the attackers as strongly as the first one had done the day before.

PENETRATION

For the greater part of yesterday this line was held intact, but towards evening a penetration was made by a small force of the attacking armoured vehicles, which crossed a stream and started a flanking movement by swinging westwards around the main part of the defending line. The defending Commander immediately threw his reserves into the defence of the weak point, and up to a late hour the line appeared to have been held more or less in one piece.

The aim of the manœuvres was to exercise the L.D.F. local units, and, according to reports from Army observers, the local men did extremely well. Their communications were admirable and their tenacity in holding positions, coupled with their knowledge of the terrain, made them a formidable foe.

The tactics used in defence were necessarily those of ambush, and for this the country over which the operations took place is particularly suited. Using their intimate knowledge of the roads and mountains, the L.D.F. men met the advancing armoured and cycling troops at every vantage point and put large numbers of them out of action. A number of L.D.F. men were taken prisoners, but usually their familiarity with the country made them difficult to find if forced to abandon their stand.

Observers expressed themselves as very well pleased with the show the Local Defence men had made in the action and with the enthusiasm they had displayed.

50 MILES FROM CAPITAL

BRITISH IN MADAGASCAR

MADAGASCAR, Sunday — As General Sir William Platt's British tanks and infantry were swiftly closing in on Antananarivo yesterday, M. Armand Annet, French Governor-General of Madagascar, left the capital. The French Military Headquarters communiqué announced from Antananarivo last night, says Reuter, that the Governor—determined to resist to the uttermost—"has transferred his headquarters to a town in the south of Madagascar."

Latest reports indicate that the British column advancing from the north-west is less than 50 miles from Antananarivo.

The British have occupied Ankazobe, north-west of Antananarivo, capital of Madagascar, said a midday communiqué from French Military Headquarters at Antananarivo.

The communiqué—broadcast at 8 a.m. B.S.T.—yesterday said that the British, after occupying Ankazobe, advanced slightly southward. In the region of Brickaville—south of the east coast port of Tamatave, 'the situation seems unchanged, the communiqué added.

STREET BATTLES IN STALINGRAD

GERMANS USE NEW PANZER TACTICS

GERMAN troops among the shattered outer built-up areas of Stalingrad, are trying to overwhelm the city defences with new panzer tactics. Formations of tanks, operating at great speed in "battering rams," sometimes 100 strong, are being thrown forward in waves in the most violent armoured attacks yet encountered.

Soviet troops have not only held the German advance to the centre of the city, but on some sectors have struck back and regained valuable ground, though all Russian accounts emphasise the continued extreme seriousness of the position.

In the Eastern Caucasus the Russian forces covering the Grozny oil region and the passage of the main Caucasian range continue to gain ground despite the arrival of German reinforcements, and at Voronezh pressure on Marshal von Bock's northern flank is being maintained. —(Reuter.)

RUSSIAN GAINS IN CAUCASUS

MOSCOW, Sunday.—Red Star today reported a Russian gain in one sector of Stalingrad, where in bitter street fighting the Germans were compelled to withdraw. Near the city another Russian unit seized a number of tactically important heights, thus improving their positions, but the Germans are launching attack after attack, striving at all costs to drive a wedge into the Russian positions, and only a few dozen yards separate the opposing forces, the paper said. "Hand-to-hand fighting frequently breaks out. On the north-western outskirts of Stalingrad the Germans are doing their utmost to widen the breach, and fighting is spreading from one street to another, and possession of every house is disputed. The position, although desperate, is by no means hopeless. —The Soviet Command refuses to contemplate surrender. Every house will be defended inside the city; every hill and vale will be fought for outside."

STREET FIGHTING

Reuter's Correspondent says:—"Heavy pressure has been brought to bear by the Germans gnawing at the north-west suburbs during the past 24 hours. At one place the Germans charged with 80 tanks, and after two attacks managed to get possession of a number of streets. By nightfall they had been thrown out of some of them. Fighting inside the suburbs and on the Steppes outside the town boils and surges like an angry sea. Night is as light as day, with thousands of flares glaring down, and flashes from a thousand guns tearing the darkness.

"On the left and right flanks of the Southern front, at Voronezh and Mozdok, the Red Army is striking back hard, as well as at Rzhev, before Moscow, and at Sinyavino on the Volkhov front. Steady Russian pressure on the Don's west bank, opposite Voronezh, has forced the Germans back. South-east of Novorossisk the Germans have been held, but are bringing reinforcements in by sea. The Russian Air Force has sunk two troop transports, with seven other vessels.

SOVIET GAINS

"Soviet troops in the Mozdok area, covering the Grozny oil fields and the passage of the main Caucasian range, have not only held their positions, but have gained some ground. The Germans, bringing up reserves, attacked in an attempt to regain lost positions, but the Russians advanced instead of the Germans. In a further attempt to re-establish their lines, the Germans sent in 40 tanks. They were beaten off. Sixteen were put out of action. Three were captured and used against the enemy.

"In an unnamed town," says Reuter, "the German command, trying to relieve the garrison, threw in two regiments and twenty tanks. In eight attacks they lost 2,000 men killed, and were then rolled back, leaving the positions and supplies of war material in Russian hands. Over 8,000 Germans have been killed by the Soviet artillery in the past seven days alone on the Voronezh front."

GERMAN CLAIMS

BERLIN, Sunday.—The German News Agency claims that German troops penetrated deeper into Stalingrad yesterday, and a Berlin military spokesman said to-night that at Stalingrad "the enemy has been putting up a stiff resistance in numerous houses converted into pill-boxes, but most have been razed to the ground by artillery fire and air bombs."—(Reuter.)

German Radio stated that strong Soviet positions in the Mozdok area have been pierced and Soviet troops thrown from further important heights.

To-day's German communiqué states:—"On the Terek German troops have thrown the enemy from fortified positions. In the area of Stalingrad fighting continues with undiminished violence. Enemy diversion attacks from the north have failed.

LONDON, Monday.—Vichy Radio stated to-day that German and Rumanian forces now control two-thirds of Stalingrad, and continue to progress in the city's north-western and southern quarters. The Soviet Command is staging violent counter-attacks within the city, which, the Agency says, have so far not altered the situation.—(Reuter.)

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

MOSCOW, Sunday. — To-night's Soviet communiqué states: "During September 20 our troops fought fierce engagements with the enemy in the areas of Stalingrad and Mozdok. During the week ended 19 September 310 German aircraft were destroyed. Our losses for the same period were 205. Our warships in the Black Sea sank an enemy destroyer."

The supplement states that in the Stalingrad area several counter-blows were dealt against the Germans, who were thrown back in some places. Several streets were recaptured. In the Mozdok area fierce fighting continued, in one sector repeated attacks were repulsed, in which 18 German tanks were put out of action and 200 German Tommy-gunners wiped out. South-east of Novorossisk two companies of German infantry were annihilated by Soviet marines. In the Voronezh area repeated German attacks were repulsed. In one sector alone 3,000 of the enemy were killed in three days. A large quantity of arms and war material was destroyed or captured. In the far North a landing was effected by Soviet marines in the German rear. Ten pillboxes and munitions were destroyed and 150 Germans killed.—(Reuter.)

R.A.F. BOMBS MUNICH

LARGE FIRES STARTED

Royal Air Force heavy bombers attacked Munich last Saturday night and left "large fires" burning. It was the first raid on that important industrial and rail centre since November 8, 1940. Bombers on that night also attacked Southern and Western Germany, including the Saar Valley, in force, says the Press Association.

"Aircraft of Fighter Command, on offensive patrols over occupied territory, attacked railway engines and goods trains," said an Air Ministry communiqué. "Coastal Command aircraft attacked enemy shipping off the Dutch coast. Ten of our bombers are missing."

The German News Agency stated: "British bombers crossed part of South and South-West Germany on Saturday night. As a result of night fighter and anti-aircraft activity they were unable at any point to carry out their intended attack. Over a town in South Germany the attackers encountered anti-aircraft fire and were headed off. They dropped their high explosives and incendiary bombs in districts on the outskirts of the town. There was some material damage in residential quarters. According to reports so far available eleven of the British bombers were brought down."—(Reuter.)

BATTERY EXPLOSION

WORKMAN INJURED

An explosion, followed by a shower of metal which fell on Bray Unknowns' football pitch, gave players and spectators a shock during a match between the home team and Home Farm yesterday.

They learned that one of the batteries of the Drumm train, which was being charged in the railway station nearby, exploded, injuring a workman, who was taken to hospital after medical treatment.

An eye-witness told an Irish Times reporter that he saw a ball of flame shoot out from the side of the battery and then heard the explosion, which was followed by a huge volume of smoke.

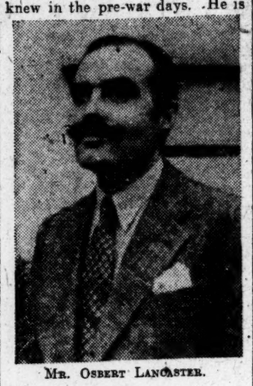

ROUND-UP ATTEMPT FAILS

The Phœnix Park deer again proved elusive yesterday; for, after an all-day bid to round-up herds and get them into the corral, the harassed hunters had to abandon their task. During the attempted round-up cattle gained entrance to the allotments, and are said to have damaged the crops.

DUBLIN'S METAL BRIDGE

EXPERT IMPRESSED

"LIKE coming out of a sealed envelope into the middle of the Architectural Review," was how Mr. Osbert Lancaster, the English writer on architecture, described his arrival at Collinstown aerodrome on Saturday. The buildings impressed him as being very much better than those at Croydon, Le Bourget, or at any of the Continental aerodromes which he knew in the pre-war days. He is looking forward to meeting the architect of the aerodrome buildings, Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, when he lectures to the Architectural Association.

MR. OSBERT LANCASTER.

Mr. Lancaster's subject to-night is the decline of British architecture in the last half of the 19th century. One of the points he is anxious to stress is that the coming of the industrial age did not necessarily mean the decay of architectural values. He found very strong confirmation of this view before he was an hour in Dublin, when Mr. John Betjeman, United Kingdom Press Attaché, who is showing him round, halted him at the end of O'Connell street to look at the Metal Bridge. Several hours afterwards Mr. Lancaster still spoke with excitement of the grace and beauty of this Industrial Age creation.

FIRST VISIT

Other interesting pieces of Dublin's 19th century architecture which Mr. Lancaster visited on Saturday afternoon included the Pro-Cathedral, in Marlborough street, and the Whitefriar street church. He hopes to see the very interesting "Black Church" some day this week.

Mr. Lancaster is unique among recent visitors in that he does not claim any family connection with Ireland or any previous knowledge of Ireland. So far as he knows, none of his family have ever lived even on the west side of England. "I think my visit will be all the more interesting," he said, "as I am coming with virtually no preconceived ideas."

GERMAN GENERAL'S DEATH REPORTED

BERLIN DENIAL

General von Kleist, German Panzer general, whose death was announced by the Russians on Saturday night, was killed, it was said, by a bullet from a Soviet rifleman. He was the first German general to cross the Soviet frontier on June 22nd, 1941. General von Kleist ranked second only to Guderian as an expert in armoured warfare. It was this 61 years old professional Reichswehr officer who led the mechanised columns which overwhelmed Belgrade in the spring operations of the Balkan campaign. When the German offensive was launched in the summer General Kleist led mass tank assaults in the Taganrog area.

The German News Agency and later the High Command communiqué denied yesterday the report of General Kleist's death.

The deaths of two Soviet artillery generals at the front—Lieut.-General Kornilov Grubov and Lieut.-General Myshkov—is announced by Moscow Radio.—(Reuter.)

NEW GUINEA AND SOLOMONS

JAPANESE CHECKED

With Japan's twin-drives on Port Moresby and in the Solomons held in check, at least temporarily, says Reuter, attacks are being concentrated on their shipping and supply posts by Allied bombers and fighters.

According to the communiqué from Headquarters in the South Pacific, in a co-ordinated attack on the Japanese New Guinea base at Lae, bombers hit dispersal areas, while attack 'planes strafed A.A. and supply installations. At Buna, Allied fighters, attacking up and down the Kokoda track, set on fire one fighter and a supply dump, and silenced an A.A. position. Buildings, huts and sheds along the track were heavily strafed. In the Vihaz Strait, between New Guinea and New Britain, Allied heavy bombers started a fire in a Japanese cargo vessel.

At Buka, in the Solomons, Allied medium bombers raided an enemy aerodrome in poor weather conditions, and bombs fell in the target area.

U-BOATS OFF GIBRALTAR

Italian Radio reported yesterday from Madrid that explosions were seen on Saturday night from Algeciras coming from the direction of the Straits of Gibraltar, where British destroyers were releasing depth charges. British semaphore signals showed that Axis submarines were in the locality.

Another Rome report said that an American submarine, so severely damaged that she is unable to submerge, has arrived at Gibraltar.

A La Linea report yesterday said that a mile of submarine net had been laid along Gibraltar Bay to prevent surprise attacks, and that a number of barges and old ships had been sunk near the Commercial Docks to prevent their possible use in a surprise disembarkation.—Associated Press.

TURKISH MINISTER ILL

The Turkish Foreign Minister, M. Menemenjoglu, has been in indifferent health for the last ten days, and the German Professor Sauerbruck is coming by air from Germany to attend him, says a Times telegram.

FIRST LORD ON NAVAL LOSSES

ALL REPLACED

CAPITAL ships, aircraft carriers and cruisers of the Royal Navy which had been lost in the last two and a quarter years have been replaced, Mr. A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, said at Sheffield yesterday.

They had lost a considerable number of destroyers, but they had been more than replaced. He had seen grow up a fleet of corvettes, to which Canada had made a substantial contribution; they now had hundreds of landing craft. That had been done in face of a series of tasks which people seem to leave out of account. "We are producing in this country aircraft, tanks, ammunition, ships, and, above all, in ship-repairing, a larger output per man of the population than any other country in the world."

If Britain had saved herself by her exertions and the world by her example, it would also be found when the history of the war was written that in the days of deepest disaster the Royal Navy had once again saved the situation. He could say that without withholding praise for the men who fought and won the Battle of Britain. He had seen the strength of the British Navy grow and grow to an extent which people would never think possible. He asked those demanding a second front now to let those in authority be the judges of what should be done and at what moment.

The Navy's major losses in the past two and a half years have been four capital ships, four aircraft-carriers, and 22 cruisers.

TOBRUK BOMBED

MANY FIRES SEEN

CAIRO, Sunday.—Allied heavy and medium bombers on Saturday night attacked Tobruk. Targets were the harbour facilities. Bombs were seen to burst across the jetties and start six fires, accompanied by one violent explosion in the main jetty area. Three of the fires were seen 30 miles away. Another broke out in the harbour south of the jetties.

Bardia was also attacked yesterday at dawn. One R.A.F. fighter squadron dispersed Axis transports in the battle area.

TANKS DIVE-BOMBED

A German High Command report yesterday from Berlin, quoted by Reuter, claimed that light bombers made repeated dive-bombing attacks on British tank concentrations and troops in the southern sector of the El Alamein front on Saturday. Lorries on the way to positions in the hills of Ruweisat and El Ragiel were scattered and a number set on fire and damaged.

An Axis ship of 2,000 or 3,000 tons was sunk in the Western Mediterranean on Thursday evening, states the R.A.F. Middle East News Service, quoted by the Press Association. It was carrying supplies to Marshal Rommel. At least one bomb hit it. Deck cargo was thrown into the air and fell into the sea. Columns of brown and white smoke issued from the ship, which stopped within 200 yards. She was severely shot up with cannon and machine-gun fire by aircraft, who silenced her guns. As the attackers flew away the ship was left stationary, listing heavily to port, with oil pouring from her. Aircraft later found wreckage extending for more than half a mile. Boats were seen stranded on a beach, but there was no sign of the vessel.

The Middle East joint communiqué from Cairo states that patrol activity continued during Friday night, and the land forces had nothing to report on Saturday. Air activity was on a small scale.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

FIVE NEW CASES IN DUBLIN

A further five cases of infantile paralysis were notified in Dublin City last week. During the previous week—between September 5 and September 12—10 cases were reported in the remainder of the country, but as yet no figures are available from this area for the week which ended last Saturday.

Faced with these latest figures issued by the Department of Local Government and Public Health, doctors still refuse to acknowledge that the disease is assuming the proportions of a serious epidemic. Dr. S. N. Elcock, Medical Superintendent of the Clonskeagh Fever Hospital, where five cases are being treated, told an Irish Times reporter that he could see no tendency for the incidence to grow. "Before these outbreaks could be described as serious we would need to have many more cases," he said. "We would need at least six or eight more at Clonskeagh before the situation became alarming."

The big danger which doctors are fighting constantly is respiratory paralysis—paralysis of the muscles of respiration, for which the only treatment is the Iron Lung or the Bragg-Paul pulsator. So far, the majority of cases have occurred among children.

Infantile paralysis occasionally strikes very suddenly. Last Wednesday a 16-year-old youth was perfectly fit. On Thursday he fell sick and was brought to Clonskeagh Fever Hospital. On Friday he died of respiratory paralysis. In most cases, however, the disease does not move quickly, and it is usually 10 days or a fortnight before doctors can give any verdict. The five cases under Dr. Elcock's care at Clonskeagh have been there about 10 days, and, he says, are all progressing fairly satisfactorily. The hospital has one Iron Lung.

While there is no definite cure for acute anterior poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), there are certain treatments accepted by modern medicine. A very weak gargle with potassium permanganate is supposed to be an effective preventative, to be followed by a large dose of chloride of potash given internally. This last is also used when the disease has actually appeared. Hot stupes, poulticing and early massage are also essential parts of treatment.

During the second quarter of this year 11 cases of the disease were notified in Eire, according to quarterly return by the Registrar-General.

14 GERMANS EXECUTED

VICHY, Sunday.—Fourteen persons, including a woman, have been executed in Karlsruhe and Frankfort, according to official announcements published in these two towns. They were accused of high treason, attempts to reconstitute the Communist party, and the spreading of news from foreign broadcasts.—(Reuter.)

REFORM OF IRISH RACING

COMMISSION APPOINTED

BY THE SPORTING EDITOR.

EVERYONE with a bee in his bonnet about Irish racing is going to have an opportunity of letting it buzz. A Commission has been set up to "report on the present and future conduct of Irish racing as a whole, and to make recommendations." It proposes to take evidence from every person in the racing community who wishes to talk, to hear the views of trainers, owners, breeders, racecourse secretaries, bookmakers, racing correspondents, and all others interested.

This Commission has been set up by the Irish Turf Club and Irish National Hunt Steeplechase Committee. It consists of Viscount Adare, Major A. H. Watt and Major D. McCalmont, of the Turf Club, Mr. P. Dunne Cullinan, Captain H. de Burgh, Captain E. A. Gargan, and the Duc de Stacpoole, of the I.N.H.S. Committee. Lord Adare will preside over its deliberations.

VISCOUNT ADARE.

ACTION WELCOMED

It had been known that the Turf Club was being urged to take cognisance of various suggestions for the reform, or rationalisation, of racing, which were being voiced among owners and trainers, so that only mild surprise was created when the news of the Commission's appointment was communicated at the Phœnix Park meeting on Saturday. With one exception, everyone with whom I discussed the Commission welcomed the Turf Club's action. A few were critical of the personnel of the Commission on the ground that they might be too conservative to make sweeping recommendations; and one man complained that Dublin, where the bulk of the racing took place, was not represented.

"Those who have been making criticisms now have an opportunity of having them seriously considered," said Lord Adare, when he told newspaper representatives about the Commission. "We propose to hold a long series of meetings, to examine two or three hundred witnesses, and to hear the views of everyone interested. We expect that the work will take a long time."

Lord Adare described his Committee as a disinterested body, which was willing to listen to both sides of every case. They would report back to the Turf Club and the I.N.H.S.C. in the same way as a Royal Commission reported. Their sittings would not be open to the Press, but a verbatim report of the proceedings would be made.

WHAT HAPPENED

The sequence of events leading up to the appointment of this Commission was, briefly, as follows:—

Early in the present year the Jockey Club (which is the English body corresponding to the Turf Club in Ireland) set up a Racing Reorganisation Committee, and about the same time the prospectus of a very influentially-backed Racehorse Owners' and Trainers' Association was published in The Sporting Life. That paper said:—"Racing remains supreme as a sport, but there are no philanthropists to subsidise it so heavily as in the past. In competition with other forms of entertainment, racing must be promoted on enterprising lines. It must be brought up-to-date." It was the object of the new Association to have it brought up-to-date.

The Irish Field immediately called attention to the fact that Irish racing would face the same problems as English racing after the war, and it stimulated interest in the subject of reform. It secured from Mr. R. More O'Ferrall, of Kildangan, a most interesting statement on the problems facing the sport, together with various suggestions for their solution. "I believe it would be in the interests of post-war racing in Ireland," he wrote, "if the Turf Club thought fit to institute a Racing Reorganisation Committee on the lines the Jockey Club have already done in England."

Subsequently Mr. More O'Ferrall brought his suggestions in the form of a memorandum before the Bloodstock Breeders' and Horse Owners' Association of Ireland. The memorandum was referred to the executive committee of the Association, which, I understand, accepted it in principle.

Next step was the appointment of the Turf Club's Commission.

SOME REFORMS

Among the reforms likely to be pressed before the Commission are the following:—Centralisation of racing; the taking over of all racecourses by a non-profit-making holding company; the extension of the operations of the Totalisator; a reduction in the number of course bookmakers; the making of rulings by the Turf Club where doubts exist about the proper payment of bets; increased stakes; more valuable place money; cheaper admission charges; reduced catering charges; better accommodation for the race-going public, and a more democratic constitution for the governing body.

From all the foregoing and whatever other suggestions are made by witnesses it will be the task of the Commission to sift the possible and desirable from the impracticable and to make recommendations.

CEMENT ARRANGEMENT

The Minister for Industry and Commerce has authorised Cement, Ltd., to inform distributors and merchants that, for the present, persons who require five cwts., or less, of cement need not procure a permit or priority certificate.

Such small quantities will now be supplied from stock by distributors or merchants. Cement distributors and merchants should keep a record of their sales of cement in lots of five cwts., or less, under this arrangement.

SIX-DAY ARCTIC BATTLE

CONVOY SMASHED

—GERMAN CLAIM

A GERMAN claim to have smashed a large Allied convoy, carrying supplies to the Soviet Union by the hazardous Northern route, was described in London last night as "grossly exaggerated."

The German announcement claimed that 38 ships, totalling 270,000 tons—out of a total convoy strength of 45—together with six of the escorting warships, had been destroyed by German bombers and U-boats in a six days' battle.

A special announcement from Herr Hitler's Headquarters yesterday said:—

"After the complete annihilation of a large convoy in the Arctic Sea between July 2 and July 7, the British, on September 13th, undertook a new attempt to sail a large convoy, protected by strong naval units, through the Arctic to a Soviet port. Very bad weather conditions and the ice boundary, which allowed the British to sail on a very northerly course, favoured the undertaking.

"Formations of German bombers and U-boats attacked and smashed this convoy, consisting of 45 merchant ships, in self-sacrificing engagements lasting several days. In difficult conditions, at great distances, in bad weather and in the face of strong enemy fighter and A.A. defences, our bombers sank altogether 25 merchant ships totalling 177,000 tons.

"Eight more steamers were so heavily damaged that they must be considered total losses. In addition, the Luftwaffe destroyed one destroyer and two escort vessels, and set fire to a second destroyer. Our U-boats, in bitter pursuit of the convoy, torpedoed and sank five merchant ships totalling 89,000 tons, and scored four torpedo hits on two British destroyers, whose sinking could not be observed owing to bad weather.

"The enemy thus suffered one of his heaviest defeats in the battle against the convoys. Within six days the enemy lost 38 merchant ships, laden with war material of all kinds, including tankers, totalling 270,000 tons. To these the loss of six naval vessels must be added. Only remnants of the convoy, consisting partly of heavily damaged ships, were able to escape."

THROUGH PACK ICE

German Radio described the convoy as "Anglo-American," and "the largest ever to attempt to force a passage through the Arctic Ocean. It sailed close to the pack ice south of Spitzbergen. One of the most successful days of the battle, which lasted from September 13 to 18, was the first day, when nine ships were sunk.

"The escorting vessels, sailing a zig-zag course, formed several cordons round the merchant ships. By September 15, sixteen ships had been sunk. Remnants of the convoy scattered, and, trying to escape to the North, were again attacked and nine more ships sunk. The German bombers were under the command of Colonel-General Stumpf."

DEARER DUBLIN GAS

The Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Company announce an increase of 6d. per therm in the price of gas—17.8d. per therm, as against 11.8d. The increased costs and expenses as the result of the war are the reasons assigned for the increase by the company.

"When we have out-gunned, outtanked and out-planned the Axis, we must see to it always that the flame of our faith burns as fiercely as theirs," said Lord Halifax, British Ambassador, yesterday in a broadcast to America on the second anniversary of the bombing of London.

INDIA "DEAD-LOCK"

AN ALL-PARTY PROPOSAL

A Reuter despatch from Calcutta states that a conference of all the recognised parties in India to explore ways out of the political deadlock was suggested in a resolution of the British-Indian Association yesterday.

The resolution, moved by Sir Bijoy Prosad Singh Roy, Revenue Minister for Bengal, declared that an atmosphere of goodwill and trust, necessary for the prosecution of the war effort, should be brought about by the introduction of a policy of conciliation, combined with preventive and punitive measures. The transfer of political power to Indian hands, through constitutional understandings, the resolution urged, would help to end the present situation.

PREMIER'S SPEECH

The Maharaja Dhiraja Bahadur of Burdwan thought that they might reasonably expect to see a modification of Mr. Churchill's recent speech when next the Premier spoke on India.

Eight prominent Bombay citizens, including Sir Purshotamda Thakurdas, Sir Rahimtoola Chinoy, and Sir Chunilal B. Mehta, issued a statement yesterday, says a Reuter message from Bombay, describing Mr. Churchill's speech as "unfortunate and provocative." "If anything is calculated to embitter feeling and provoke suspicion, and, consequently, impair India's war effort," the statement continued, "it is sentiments of the type to which the British Premier gave such intemperate utterance. . ."

"WHAT IS WRONG?"

The Associated Press correspondent in New Delhi says that the members of the Council of State will to-day take up the debate on what is wrong with India. During the past week 27 speeches were delivered before the Assembly, and of these, 14 including four by Government officials, endorsed the Government position, while 13 attacked it. The Civil and Military Gazette, Kipling's old paper, and the stoutest Empire supporter in India, attacked Mr. Churchill's speech when it was made, as offering nothing constructive. To-day it again took up the cudgels, declaring that "it lay in the heart and brain and mouth of Mr. Churchill to reverse the process of growing suspicion and to rally India to the anti-Axis cause."

NATIONALIST BODY

NEW DELHI, Sunday.—An appeal to all Nationalists to concentrate, as far as present conditions permit, on the defence of India was made by the Working Committee of the All-India Nationalist League to-day.

In a resolution they viewed with grave concern the "growing deterioration of the internal situation," deplored Congress mass action, and condemned acts of sabotage and violence. While pledging support for legitimate measures against violence, they urged complete Indianisation of the Viceroy's Executive Council, leaving the control of the country's armed forces in the hands of the Commander-in-Chief and the restoration of provincial autonomy in the Provinces.—(Reuter.)

THIS PLAN WILL BRING YOU
£240 A YEAR FOR LIFE FROM AGE 55

Most men have to provide for their own future. They have no rich relative to take the burden from their shoulders, and no business pension scheme to fall back upon. They stand or fall on their own efforts.

Are you satisfied with the progress you yourself are making? Have you saved anything like enough to justify a belief that at 55 years of age you will be in a position to take things more easily? What about your family should you, on whom they depend, be taken from them? The plan about to be explained, if adopted without further delay, will relieve you of all anxiety about the matter.

It is the best, the easiest and the surest way of providing both for your own later years and for your dependents.

Assuming your age to be 35 and you would like to provide for a private income of £240 a year for life commencing at age 55, this is how the plan works out. You make monthly, quarterly, half-yearly or yearly deposits of an agreed sum to the Sun Life of Canada, the great Annuity Company, and you get in return:

£240 a Year for Life
At 55 years of age the Sun Life of Canada will start paying you an income for life of £240 per annum, and you'll receive this income every year as long as you live. Or, if you prefer it, you can have £3,525 plus profits in lieu of the pension.

Income Tax Saved
For every deposit you make you receive rebate of Income Tax—a concession which will save you a considerable sum during the period. This is additional profit on the transaction.

£2,000 for Your Family
Should you not live to the age of 55, £2,000, plus accumulated profits, will be paid to your family.

Any Age, Any Amount
Though 35 and £240 a year for life have been quoted here, the plan may be varied to suit other ages and to provide larger or smaller incomes. Whatever amount you can save (from £1 a month) for your own and family's future, this plan is the safest and most profitable you can adopt.

The Plan is Flexible
Supposing that after making deposits for two years or more you found yourself temporarily unable to continue, there is provision to help you. The Company would, in that event, automatically advance your overdue deposits and keep the plan in force, allowing you a certain time to bring your deposits up to date. The longer the plan has been in force the longer this time would be.

£204,000,000 Assets
The Sun Life of Canada has assets of over £204,000,000. It is the largest Company of the British Empire transacting Life Assurance solely. Do not hesitate, therefore, to send for particulars of this plan, which may mean great things for you and yours.

HINTS ON THE USE OF TURF

OPEN FIRES:

Free burning fuels, such as turf, require very little draught to maintain combustion. With turf, even the draught in an open coal fireplace may be too strong for efficient burning. The slotted iron bottom of grates, which are raised above the fireplace, should be covered with metal or fireclay tiles to restrict draught. This may also be necessary in the case of fireplaces fitted with an air regulator under the fire, which should be shut when the fire has been well kindled.

Stand the sods on end, not lengthwise, and disturb the fire as little as possible. Add new fuel around the central body of hot fire rather than on top of it.

RANGES:

Close the bottom grating with metal or tiles, so that open space will be only one-tenth of total bottom area. Where necessary, reduce air entering fire by closing the front with an iron plate. Break the turf into pieces about fist size. Keep damper less open than with coal.

LIGHTING FIRE:

When lighting fire, put sods standing on end around a core of paper, sticks and broken turf, or, where possible, around glowing embers from another fire. A draught through fire can be obtained by closing chimney breast opening with a blower, or by using a bellows. Do not let the fire die down too low. A small, bright fire is more economical than a large, smouldering fire. Use turf as dry as possible. Turf for the day's use may be placed around or near the fire to dry.

STORING TURF:

Turf stored outdoors should be placed on dry ground and should be covered on top. Build the side sods in regular formation, like the walls of a house, to protect the interior of the heap from rain. The rick may also be weathered by building the outside layer of top sods on a slope like the roof of a house.

Summarised from Bulletin No. 2 of the Industrial Research Council, "Turf as Domestic Fuel," published by the Stationery Office, price 6d.

Mother! Give Constipated Child 'California Syrup of Figs'

Children love the pleasant taste of 'California Syrup of Figs' brand laxative, and gladly take it even when bilious, feverish, sick or constipated. No other laxative regulates the tender little bowels so nicely. It sweetens the stomach and stimulates the liver and bowels without cramping or over-acting. Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle, harmless laxative.

Tell your chemist you want 'California Syrup of Figs,' which has full directions for babies and children of all ages. Prices 1/3 and 2/6. Mother, you must say 'CALIFORNIA.'

LOSS OF HAIR

THE ONLY SUCCESSFUL TREATMENT

Rathgar, Dublin,
September 7th, 1942.

Dear Mr. McDonough,

I do not know how to thank you for what you have done for me in such a short time, after what I had been through with my scalp and hair, 2½ years ago my hair was falling and my head full of dandruff. I tried two advertised remedies and a hair specialist in turn, before going to my doctor, who done me no good either. After some time I went again to my doctor, who advised the same treatment as before. After using the lotion prescribed, for two weeks, a bald patch appeared on the right side of my head. I went to him again and was advised to dab the bald patch with iodine. I did this, but the only thing that grew was a big scab. He then told me that my hair might fall out in patches all over my head and off my eyebrows, and that the cause of the trouble was not known, but was believed to be due to nerves. After all this, I was in a bad state when I came to see you, but somehow I felt a real confidence in you almost at once, and, thank God, I was not disappointed. My scalp and hair is now as perfect as ever it was, thanks to your great experience and ability.

With very grateful thanks,
Very sincerely yours,
(Miss ———).

THE DERBY SWEEP

The receipts of the Irish Hospitals' Sweepstake on the Irish Derby in June amounted to £69,630. From this was deducted sellers' prizes amounting to £930, leaving a net sum of £68,700, to which was added £4 19s. 2d. interest. Expenses amounted to £14,555, and the balance, being the difference between the expenses and the maximum amount (30 per cent. of the proceeds) permitted for expenses payable as remuneration to Hospitals' Trust (1940), Ltd., the promoters, is £6,055. The prize fund amounted to £34,355 and stamp duty £3,436. The Hospitals' Fund received £10,305.

Edvina Scores Again

THE attendance at Phoenix Park for the concluding meeting of the season on Saturday was the largest of the year, with the exception of that of Phoenix Plate day. Close finishes ruled throughout, and the day wound up with a dead-heat in the sprint handicap.

Edvina, Mr. Joe McGrath's smart two years old, put up another fine performance when, under an impost of 9st. 13lb., she romped away from twelve others in the Skerries Plate. Mr. Ussher, the Brackenstown trainer, saddled two winners—Suntop and Ceylon.

Only two people were successful in naming Ceylon and Athlone Calling for the tote double, and received £221 12/6 each, while those who supported Athlone Calling to win his race received £31 6/-, or odds at the rate of 312 to 1.

Catering by Thomas Neary, 1 Chatham street, Dublin.

Bohemians Checked

DUNDALK ..... 1 BOHEMIANS 0

BOHEMIANS' winning record in the Shield was broken at Oriel Park, yesterday, when Dundalk beat them one-nil. Lavery scored the goal. Bohemians played as selected, while Dundalk introduced McDonald at outside left, and he had a very promising first match in Eire football. Dundalk also included young Hearty as left full, and he was one of the big successes of the match. In bad conditions, the football was fast and lively, with two good defences holding a tight grip on attacks. Dundalk forwards made the mistake of trying to walk the ball into the net, and the inside forwards of Bohemians fell into the same habit.

Bohemians were lucky that they were not two goals down in the first half. A low shot from Barlowe beat Landers, but crashed against the upright, and Horlacher kicked it clear. Later McDonald ran past Horlacher, and, with a powerful shot, hit the crossbar. For ten minutes in the second half Dundalk did all the attacking, but Byrne and Mulloy were fine defenders. Following a great clearance by Leatham from Crowe, Grice ran through, but Barlowe just missed connecting with his cross. Bohemians' best chance came when Crowe and Morris staged a breakaway. Leatham was beaten, but Hearty beat the centre-forward for speed when Crowe looked to have a goal at his mercy. Ten minutes from the end the only goal of the match came. Mulloy only partially cleared a drive from McDonald, and, as the ball came to him, Lavery shot yards away from Landers, and into the corner of the net. Bohemians fought back with determination, and Horlacher came up-field in an attempt to get an equaliser.

ROVERS' RALLY OF NO AVAIL

CORK ..... 4 ROVERS 2

Cork United showed considerable improvement on recent displays in defeating Shamrock Rovers at The Mardyke yesterday. A grand rally by Rovers in the last quarter of an hour brought excitement in plenty, and all but enabled them to force a draw. For the greater part of the game, however, Rovers' display was as disappointing as Cork's was pleasing. The visitors did not show their usual determination, and the finishing of their forwards against a very sound defence did not impress. Cork, on the other hand, gave a really good display all the way through, and their success was well merited. The absence of Duffy caused some positional changes.

Dunne got Cork's opening score after 25 minutes, and, five minutes before the interval, Madden, from a penalty, got the second. In the second half Bryson reduced the arrears from a penalty, and a few minutes later Dunne got Cork's third. Rovers rallied strongly, and ten minutes from the end Coad scored. Then, with only a few minutes left for play, and Rovers pressing hard, the equaliser seemed certain when Foley fell clearing a corner. Noonan just managed to get to the ball at the line, and, while Rovers were protesting, the ball was kicked clear and O'Driscoll dashed away unmarked, to get Cork's fourth.

GATE MAKE MOST OF CHANCES

ST. JAMES'S GATE 4 BRAY 0

St. James's Gate beat a rearranged and improved Bray Unknowns team at Iveagh Grounds yesterday, 4-0, the scorers being the former Newry and Coleraine centre-forward, Courtney, Barr (outside-right), a promising junior (2), and Creevy (left-half). The margin flattered the home side, whose forwards availed themselves of most of their opportunities, while the Bray quintette were weak around goal, and evinced a tendency to get off-side. If anything, Murtagh, the Gate goalkeeper, who brought off several brilliant saves, had more to do than the Bray 'keeper, Collins.

In the first half Courtney secured a rather simple goal. In the second half, from a pass by Rogers, inside-right, Barr hit the underneath part of the crossbar with a good shot, the ball bouncing off the ground into goal. Barr's second goal was the result of a shot of his glancing off the upright into the net. Creevy after a fine dribble scored well beyond the reach of Collins.

For most of the second period the Gate played with ten men. Courtney was injured in the first half, but resumed. His ankle again gave way early in the second half and he retired.

DRUMCONDRA SAVE A POINT

DRUMCONDRA... 3 BRIDEVILLE... 3

After being 3-1 down at half-time, Drumcondra saved a point against Brideville at Tolka Park yesterday, scoring twice in the second half without reply. It was a hard-fought and entertaining game, in which Brideville played such clever football in their few attacking moves in the first half that they deserved their lead. An injury to Wilton just on the interval disorganised the team, and they were completely outplayed during the second period. Drumcondra's play around the goal was too close, however, and had they adopted Brideville's first-half tactics of swinging the ball from wing to wing, they probably would have won in the end.

Eight minutes after the start Daly sent a neat, short pass on the left to Dyer, who scored with a powerful drive. Straightaway, O'Brien went down the right wing and centred from the backline, giving Byrne an easy chance of equalising. Five minutes later, Wilton brought the ball down on the left wing, and from his pass Flynn put Brideville ahead. Ten minutes after this Wilton sent out to Byrne and headed the return pass into the net for Brideville's third goal. After twenty minutes in the second half, Dyer headed in from McNamara's pass, and thirteen minutes from the end O'Rourke converted a penalty, awarded against Hardy for bringing down McGlynn.

HARRINGTON IN FORM

SHELBOURNE ... 2 LIMERICK ... 0

The 2-0 defeat of Limerick by Shelbourne on Saturday at Shelbourne Park was a flattering result for the visitors. The scoring would have been much heavier if their goalkeeper, Harrington, had not been in excellent form. He could not be blamed for Gannon's opening goal after 56 minutes, as it was a hard drive from close in following a rebound off the bar from a hot shot by Cassidy. It was from almost the same position that Kennedy, a couple of minutes later, got the second, and the Reds' right winger can put tremendous power behind the ball from short range.

Harrington certainly distinguished himself, but his best effort was a wonderful one-hand save from Walsh in the second half, to be followed immediately by another by a header by Cassidy. The Limerick backs and half-backs, with young Brinn, a local junior, at right half-back, held the clever Shelbourne forwards very well, indeed, but there was a palpable weakness in the home attack, which, mostly, were, developed by Kennedy and Gannon.

Limerick's forwards often opened up the play, but the crosses by P. Ahern and McAleer, as a rule, were unavailing, as Fallon, Kinsella and Olphert put the screw on the insides who played into their hands by holding on too long.

SUN CHARIOT GOES TO STUD

Sun Chariot, winner of three classic races in England for the King, is to be retired to the stud and not kept in training for another season, as had been hoped. Captain Charles Moore, the King's racing manager, states that both Sun Chariot and Big Game will return to the National Stud, from which they were leased.

ALSAB WINS MATCH

The United States "wonder horse," Whirlaway, was beaten a "whisker" by Alsab in a £6,250 match at Narragansett on Saturday. It was one of the most terrific races ever seen on an American track. The naked eye could not tell which had won, but the official photograph of the finish showed that Alsab was "less than a nose in front."

TWO POINTS VICTORY FOR DUBLIN

By PATO.

DUBLIN ..... 1-10 GALWAY 1-8

Nineteen years ago Dublin won their fourteenth all-Ireland title; yesterday, at Croke Park, they captured No. 15 against a powerful Galway side, and now take their stand with Kerry at the head of the championship list.

Without being a classic, the 1942 final was brimful of incident. Galway's fielding and kicking in the first half were superb, and they were stones heavier than Dublin; but, when the ball was difficult to handle, Dublin were in their element, for the sod still played fast and smooth. Dublin's nimble control of the ball on the ground, their swerving forwards and splendid teamwork on a familiar pitch told their tale. The winners played with abundant pluck and skill through a stirring second half, and fully deserved the victory.

Dublin won the toss, and played against a slight breeze to the canal goal. Galway were first away, and, from a free, Fallon secured to raise the first point. Then we saw a perfect bout of Dublin passing, in which Quinn, Banks and Fitzgerald handled, and Banks pointed a 30 yards free. Galway's sound fielding and long kicking told. Sean Thornton had two fast points before O'Reilly forced another free and Banks did the needful. The McDermotts' man was elusive as an eel, and his next kick reached the square. Bermingham and Fitzgerald were in, and rushed the ball to the net for Dublin's lead.

Galway's high fielding again took the game to the other side; Thornton brothers balanced, and Jack Canavan swung a great ball past to recover Galway's lead. Galway kept up the pressure, and a free from 50 yards, taken by Casey, was helped to the Dublin net by Thornton's fingers, giving Galway a 4 point lead. Close to the interval Banks got a Dublin point, and the score stood: Galway 1-6, Dublin 1-3.

Dublin were more suited to the conditions in the second half. Their tackling was close and their ground work better. Soon they were in attack. Joy kicked a great point left-footed from far out. Flavin restored Galway's three-point lead only for Banks to swerve in for two and Joy for one, to set the score 1-7 each at the ¾ hour.

In the last quarter Galway were hard pressed. Connaire and Casey saved them before O'Connor put Dublin ahead with a great point. Falvey and Fitzgerald, Bermingham and Banks were now moving like winners, but Galway worked back for a fast point by Fallon—1-8 all. Close on time Falvey placed Banks, who again swerved through for Dublin's 9th minor. Fletcher finished the hour with Dublin's last point amidst scenes of wild enthusiasm.

The Gate—The attendance was 37,105, and the receipts £2,655 4/2.

ELM PARK COURSE RECORD

By J. P. ROONEY.

Beating the standard scratch score at Elm Park yesterday by two strokes, with a course record of 68, the Ulster professional champion, Fred. Daly, of the City of Derry Club, won the first prize in the club's £80 tournament.

The bogey is 71 (34-out), and, when he reached the turn in the remarkable figures of 29, Daly seemed likely to finish in the low 60s. For ten holes he was only 32, but then came a bad 11th, where he dropped a stroke, and a worse 13th, a bogey 5 of 467 yards. There he was near the green in two, but fluffed his third, had a poor fourth, and took a nasty half-dozen. He failed to recover, lapsed again at the 16th, and lost another stroke at the short 17th, to finish in 39—ten over his figures for the holes out. There was talk of his first nine being a record in Irish professional golf, but I think the score was equalled years ago by P. Neill (Foxrock) at Dun Laoghaire. Harry Bradshaw, Irish champion, also beat the course record with his 68; in fact, his scoring was more consistent than the winner's, as he was out in 33 but the advantage of the stroke on the handicaps placed Daly at the top. Kevin O'Connor (plus 1), the home professional, tied with Bradshaw for second and third prizes with 71. He was out in 34, and one stroke below them was Christy Kane, (plus 1), of Tullamore, who was 35 for the holes out. There were 38 competitors, including several from the North.

USEFUL AND NOVEL INVENTIONS

DUBLIN SHOW ENTRIES

No more holes in heels of socks or stockings—what a boon! Yet it may be accomplished by methods devised by a young Irish inventor, who has entered his idea for the annual Inventions Competition and Exhibition which will be held under the auspices of the N.A.I.D.A. at the Mansion House in November next.

This is only one of the novel and useful ideas submitted in the large number of entries already received. The entries will be more numerous, and possibly more interesting, than in any previous competition. Inventors range from young schoolboys to septuagenarians. There is one entry from a blind pensioner, and another ambitious competitor has submitted eight different ideas. There have been many inquiries received from outside this country showing the importance now being attached to the competition.

The ideas submitted cover a wide range. One deals with improved fishing bait and another with television. Many new agricultural implements and machines are suggested, including potato diggers, corn sowers, and dairy machinery. There are also special turf stoves and grates, and in the general section there are new plans for flashlight photography, invalid chairs, and portable ovens.

Motorists and cyclists will be interested in ingenious lockings methods, safety carriers for children and a propeller. A substitute for commercial wax should also be welcomed.

The Exhibition will open in the Round Room of the Mansion House on Monday, 16th November, and the exhibits will be ranged round a full-sized civil aeroplane. There will be a number of lectures (in Irish and English) on aeronautical designing by experts.

The closing date for entries is the 30th inst., but, in view of postal and transport difficulties, it has been decided to give competitors a further seven days' grace.

POST-WAR WORLD

GREAT OPPORTUNITY

"We are presented to-day with the greatest opportunity that has fallen to the Church since its early days—the opportunity of translating our faith into action for the benefit of our neighbours," Count Michael de la Bedoyere, editor of the Catholic Herald, said last evening in a lecture on "The Catholic Citizen in the Post-War World," delivered in the Aberdeen Hall, Gresham Hotel, Dublin. The lecture was in connection with the Catholic Association for International Relations, of which Cardinal MacRory is patron.

Count de la Bedoyere said that they must not misunderstand the situation. Christianity never was and never would be an easy faith, and for the present generation it was a supremely difficult one. They could not say how the world would fare in the future, but it would be fairly safe to prophecy a steady increase in the regimentation of the individual by secularist States serving the machine according to the pagan aims of one ideology or another. The destruction and disruption caused by the war was bound to lead to some such control in order to stave off anarchy and set the world a-rebuilding. The only alternative was anarchy. When that time came they would want Christians courageous enough to speak and live their faith. If Catholics generally, in all countries, had lived their faith the modern totalitarian movements would have been arrested, or at least modified.

The chairman was Dr. Lombard Murphy, and a vote of thanks was passed to the lecturer on the motion of Professor O'Sullivan, seconded by Lord ffrench.

DUBLIN TENNIS TEAM DEFEATED

A young Dublin team was soundly defeated 6-1 by North Leinster at Fitzwilliam on Saturday. The visiting players, drawn from the Ardee, Navan and Drogheda districts, had established a 6-1 margin, mainly on the doubles, when rain prevented further play, several singles matches having to be abandoned.

Results:—R. Williams beat J. D. Hackett—3-6, 6-3, 6-3; J. J. McArdle and L. P. Gibney beat D. A. Good and F. W. Peard—7-5, 7-5; L. Steen and R. Williams beat J. D. Hackett and I. Boden—6-2, 6-1; H. Kennedy and W. Willis beat C. Davis and W. Hopley—6-4, 4-6, 6-3; J. J. McArdle and Miss I. Lewis lost to D. A. Good and Miss P. Miley—3-6, 7-5, 2-6; L. Gibney and Miss B. Jennings beat F. W. Peard and Miss C. Egan—9-7, 3-6, 8-6; Misses Jennings and Lewis beat Misses Miley and Egan—6-4, 7-5.

MUNSTER HARD COURT FINALS

Men's Singles—B. A. Haughton beat F. C. South—7-5, 1-6, 6-3. Women's Singles—Miss M. Foley beat Miss P. Conner—6-4, 2-6, 9-7. Mixed Doubles—B. A. Haughton and Miss Z. Godfrey beat W. J. Dwyer and Miss M. Strachan —6-3, 6-3. Men's Doubles—B. A. Haughton and F. C. South beat F. Lane and S. Jamieson—6-1, 6-1.

YACHTING SEASON CLOSES

Four special races sailed at Dun Laoghaire on Saturday brought the Dublin Bay yachting season to a formal close. A "Crews'" Race, for 21-Footers, was one of the events, and produced four starters, soon reduced to three through Oola catching Innisfallen on the wrong tack. The course was a short one, and Garavoge (Mr. G. Bayly-Spencer) won by 1¼ mins. from Oola (Mr. I. McFerran), with Geraldine (Mr. W. Wright), well up, third. The next event was a race for 17-Footers round Dalkey Island. Eileen (Mr. T. H. Roche) won it, but only by 30 secs. from Silver Moon. Rita was 3rd and Deilginis next.

The Mermaids sailed a Ballot Race, and the luck of the draw gave Minx, the crack boat, to Mr. D. Slator, and he won, Amy (Mr. F. D. M. Daniel) being 2nd and Oonagh (Mr. H. E. Bell) 3rd. Mantis (Mr. E. M. Booth) was next, and then Ruby (Mr. A. J. Mooney), and Daphne (Miss Osterberg). The Wags were down to half a dozen, and Vega (Miss S. Armstrong) won in fine style, Pansy being next, and then Penelope, Mollie, Sprite and Tomboy.

FAST CYCLING BY M. KELLY

Continuing his remarkable series of successes in road events, M. Kelly (Irish Road Club) put the 25 Miles Championship to his credit in a time-trial on the Navan road yesterday in 1 hr. 1 min. 11 secs. He had against him strong opposition in the persons of J. Bell (Belfast) and T. F. Quinn (City of Dublin). They were second and third respectively, Bell being 17 secs. slower than Kelly, and Quinn 1 min. 9 secs. slower than Bell. Kelly's time was notably good, his second best "25" of the year.

THREE MILES TITLE

At the Bohermeen Club's sports, at Navan, yesterday, M. Anderson (Bohermeen) won the 3 Miles Irish Cycling Championship, W. Killion (Bective Wheelers) being second.

BOWLING

Shott Cup final—St. James's Gate 58, Clontarf 55.
Junior League—Railway Union 57, Imperial Tobacco 41.
Leinster B.C.—Milling Cup—F. G. Bestall; runner-up, A. White. Roger Cup—F. G. Bestall; runner-up, W. H. Morton. Pallett Cup—J. Howard and A. White; runners-up, R. Watt and W. H. Morton.
Imperial Tobacco B.C.—Stokes Cup—J. Keogh; runner-up, J. Glennon. Novices' Cup—C. Cullen; runner-up, R. B. Elders (jun.).

L.D.F. Helped.—Martin Burke, Lackagh, Turloughmore, was sentenced to three months' imprisonment by District Justice Cahill, Athenry, for stealing a bicycle, and a concurrent three months for stealing the overcoat that was on the bicycle. The Justice paid a tribute to Messrs. C. Daly and P. Curley, two members of the L.D.F., for assisting Detective Clarke in apprehending Burke.

Rathgar Badminton Club.—General meeting to-morrow at 7.15 sharp in the Gregg Hall. Hon. sec. for season, R. Curtis, 13 St. Catherine's avenue, S.C.R.

IRISH INDUSTRIAL FEATURES

PRICES ADVANCING

THE outstanding feature of markets on the Dublin Stock Exchange during the past week was the steady and strong support for Irish securities, and, in particular, for industrial counters. Despite the good advances which took place over recent weeks, demand still goes on, and prices look like going still higher in many directions.

There was active dealings in Clondalkin Paper Ordinary shares, and they went quickly ahead to 7/1½. This company's prospects are considered bright. If the nation-wide collection of waste paper continues successful, it should have little difficulty regarding supplies of raw materials. Another favourable point is that it manufactures newsprint, which is so precious nowadays. The shares, which are of 5/- denomination, last year received a dividend of 6 per cent.

May Roberts (Ireland) Ordinary came into the limelight, and advanced to 39/-. This concern has done well in the past, and, although the dividend for 1941 was reduced to 12½ per cent., the net profits were considerably higher than in 1940. At the present price they yield £6 8s. 2d. per cent. Newspaper issues, too, were to the fore, and Independent "B" Ord. advanced to 50/3 x.d., while Irish Times 2nd Pref. made headway to 4/6.

The fall in profits, as shown by the report of the Alliance Gas Co. for the past half-year, has by no means shaken the confidence of investors. In more normal times the report would have had a very adverse effect on the price of the shares, but people nowadays appear to be satisfied to take a long view and ignore the difficulties of the times we are passing through. There is no doubt that the post-war prospects are excellent, but the company's position could easily be worse before it is better. Under the circumstances, the shares look fully valued, if one is only prepared to take a short view.

STRONG DEMAND

There is strong buying of Dublin Transport Ordinary Shares, and they closed on Friday last at 20/6, the highest level touched during the past ten years. The company, despite the curtailed services, is known to be doing quite well, and, provided supplies of rubber, oil, petrol, etc., can be obtained, the outlook is quite bright. Bakeries also attracted a lot of attention, and the main feature was the sharp spurt in Bolands Ord. to 145/-. As was only to be expected, the market in Cement Ord. boiled over, and they came back to 33/-. On last year's dividend of 8 per cent., they look high enough, for the yield works out at only about £4 17/- per cent. Solus issues are still favoured, as the company is believed to be in a favourable position regarding supplies of raw materials.

Draperies continue to meet with speculative support, as most of them are said to be doing better than for several years past. Crowe Wilson Ord. firmed up to 16/-, and Switzer Ord. to 17/6, while Pim Bros. Pref. fetched to 21/1½.

Although interest in Home Rails continues on a modest scale, the undertone remains fairly good, and values are harder in places. As the end of the year approaches, it is more than likely that public interest will switch back to this section. The various concerns are believed to be doing well, and dividend speculations will, naturally, hold public interest as the dividend date draws nearer.

Local gilt-edged issues are still holding the advances made over recent months, and there seems little signs of any profit-taking as yet. Talks of a new loan have been revived, and there is no doubt but it would meet with a ready response, with the market in such a healthy condition.

LONDON FINANCE

SOME BRIGHT SPOTS

A SLIGHT setback has occurred in British Funds, mainly in the long-dated securities, or those without a definite redemption date, such as 3½ p.c. War Loan. Although there was still some support for the quoted War Bonds, the result of a plentiful supply of money in the hands of financial investors, there was less buying of the short-dated British Government Stocks. Buying of Home Railway Ordinary and Junior Preferences continued during last week, although this quietened down towards the week-end. There still appears to be scope for a further appreciation in this section, owing to the good yields obtainable under the Government scheme of war-time control, which will last for at least one year after hostilities cease.

The search for high yield stocks has not been confined to Home Rails; for several Industrial equities have been wanted, and several have appreciated. This demand continues to have an undue effect upon prices because of the scarcity of stock, which has been a feature of markets for a considerable time now. The outstanding feature of home Industrials last week was the improvement in Courtaulds, following the annual report, which was accompanied by the chairman's statement, and the market was stimulated by his reference to the current year's business, and his remarks regarding post-war prospects.

South African Gold Mining shares have been a better market since the Finance Minister of the country, Mr. A. J. Hofmeyer, replied to those who have argued that a curtailment of gold production would help South Africa's war effort. Mr. Hofmeyer holds that the maintenance of gold output has a stabilising effect on the Union's political, as well as economic, affairs. It would seem that South Africa's case for maintaining the gold output is sound, though, of course, nobody would place financial in front of political considerations. The mines at present are making a substantial contribution to munitions' production, and probably the transfer of labour resulting from even a heavy curtailment of operations would not be sufficient to justify the resultant disturbance of the financial and economic situation.

Rather more buying of what are called recovery stocks has been reported lately. Usually the purchases are at prices which give a very meagre return, but the buyers mainly look to capital appreciation for profit. A security may give a yield of 3 p.c. or less, but if the price rose from, say, 75 to 85, there would be a profit of £10, not subject to income tax. Admittedly, such purchases are speculative. There are some Trustee Securities which give good promise of capital appreciation before very long, and will certainly enjoy that if the war situation takes a decidedly favourable turn. Among these are Australian Government Loans with early redemption dates, such as the Commonwealth 3¾ p.c., 1951-54; Queensland 4 p.c., 1940-50; Victoria 3 p.c., 1929-49, and Western Australia 3½ p.c., 1927-47. These stand at from about 2 to 6½ points below par, and, allowing for redemption at par, promise returns ranging from about 4½ to 4¾ p.c. The higher figure relating to the Western Australia issue which is quoted at 96½. Victoria 3 p.c. looks an attractive short-dated investment, for it is redeemable at latest in 1949, and at present can be bought at about 7 points discount.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Saturday.—The opening trend was irregular, and trading was quiet. Renewed buying timidity was evident, with the news picture not providing much bullish sentiment.

The market closed easy. The turnover of 178,000 shares comprised 463 issues, of which 169 advanced, 127 declined, and 167 were unchanged.—(Reuter.)

COMPANY NEWS

Anglo-Iranian Oil.—Total profit for the year £6,222,175 (against £5,826,191). Ord. dividend, as already announced, is being raised from 5 p.c. to 7½ p.c., leaving the carry forward at £1,187,119, compared with £1,101,351.

Bukit Merajam.—Profit £46,160 (against £112,371); no dividend (against 10 p.c.).

Banir Rubber.—Profit £5,000 (against £15,279); dividend 4 p.c. (against 11½ p.c.).

Folland Aircraft.—Trading profit £47,578, against £28,269. Final dividend 3 per cent. making 5 per cent. (same).

Haven (Johore) Rubber.—Profit £6,628 (against £21,240); no Ord. dividend (against 6½ p.c.).

Imperial Cold Storage.—It is proposed to issue an additional 375,000 Ord. shares of £1 each to rank in all respects pari passu with the existing Ord. shares.

Linotype and Machinery.—Profit up from £101,813 to £123,544. Dividend of 12 p.c., compared with 8 p.c., has been paid on the 6 p.c. Cumulative Pref. shares, bringing payments up to April 11, 1922, and leaving the carry forward at £54,607 (against £45,265). No dividend has yet been paid on the Ord.

Qualcasts.—Profit £159,787, compared with £99,587. Ord. distribution is again brought up to total of 30 p.c. by a final of 10 p.c. and a bonus of 10 p.c.; forward £30,626, compared with £29,475.

MORE IRISH CATTLE AT MANCHESTER

The steady tone of the provision market in Manchester has continued, and no changes have been announced in prices or official control arrangements. Available supplies of meats, fats and dairy products move freely into consumption through the usual trade channels.

The chief feature of the week is that four weekly supplies of butter, margarine and cooking fats will be obtainable by registered customers at any time during a current period, which will operate from September 20. A similar arrangement already applies to cheese and sugar. Eggs continue in limited supply, and include home-produced, Eireann and Northern Ireland.

Heavier supplies of fat cattle were entered, the majority of which were fat cows. Quality was maintained at about average standards. Pitchings of home killed beef showed little change, but there was rather less Irish dressed. This was counter-balanced by increased supplies of Irish cattle killed locally.

A slight but steady increase in arrivals of game was reported, and fair clearance was effected at maximum prices. Partridge 8/6, red grouse 9/6, black 12/- per brace, cock pheasants 7/6, hen 6/9 each. Chickens, fowls, ducklings and ducks 1/9; small lots of turkeys 2/9 per lb. wholesale (control prices).

LONDON MONEY MARKET

Money remained easy, and, despite some shrinkage in business, the market was able to dispose of its bills. A further contraction in turnover is expected this week, as some of the banks will be arranging their monthly make-up. New Treasury deposit receipt loans of £35,000,000 are invited, and there will be no maturities.

CRUISKEEN LAWN

By Myles Na gCopaleen

ANOTHER thing that is going short in the emergency is midnight oil. A friend who burns a considerable quantity of it tells me he is down to his last drum and his supplies (holds out) (little hope) of getting more. But pray do not think (for one moment) that the Myles na gCopaleen Research Bureau is asleep when a problem of this kind is confronting the nation. Advanced experiments are in progress with a patent midnight grease which is made from turf, whiskey offals and cider. This mess burns with a pale blue flame and is quite satisfactory for illuminating midnight attics. The trouble (as I needn't tell you) is the smell. The smell is fearful. Already the Corporation has assured us that we are committing a nuisance by manufacturing the stuff. That, of course, is a scandalous charge (to lay) (at our door). Ireland must have midnight oil or a suitable substitute, otherwise it will disappear from civilisation. Without midnight oil the Irish Academy of Letters will (find it impossible to function) and even I will have to put aside my (monumental) work on Inorganic Geometry. Anybody who has a B.A. will not be able to proceed with his (or her) plan of reading the entire works of Dusty Evsky this winter. Chaos (will reign). Light-starved students will riot in the streets. Midnight-oil-tankers standing in the docks will be looted. Labour will challenge a general election.

That is why we are going to keep on trying to de-stink our inflammable treacle.

FURTHERMORE.

Burners of midnight oil are not the only class who are suffering. The (acute) shortage of plate glass is causing serious embarrassment to people who live in glass houses, and our Research Bureau has been (inundated) with (shoals of) letters imploring us to see about manufacturing a substitute, "opaque, if necessary."

"It's like this," a prominent person who lives in a glass house said to me the other day, "by (exercising the greatest restraint) I can let six days of the week go by without . . . . well . . . doing what we people who live in glass houses find it impossible to resist doing. On the seventh day (with the best will in the world) nothing will stop me from rushing out and firing a stone. Just one stone. And you know the result. Showers of stones and filth and brickbats descend on my glass house and smash twenty of thirty panes. My glazier tells me that after next week he will have nothing more for me. Putty has been cornered and can only be got in the black market at scandalously (inflated) prices. What am I to do? What's (going to become of me)?"

I mumble something about try to see what we can do, all for the best, stern and trying times, all must (be prepared to make sacrifices), war over in another year, crisis of civilisation.

"It's all very well" (voice now shrill) "but we have to live too. What is the Government doing? The Government will have to (wake up and) do something because we are the most numerous class in the community. There are at least 400,000 people in Eire living in glass houses. Are their (claims) to be ignored? Do they (count for nothing)?"

And so on. Even that shifty class, wire-pullers, are complaining of the shortage of wire. Our Bureau these days is put to that essential accessory of its collar, the pin.

ENTERPRISING MR. BRAY.

Alone stood Bray, voracious,
But can't stand still in mines,
Tries dirty dhows and phosphorus,
And the Board fled behind!

The Far East

Some short while ago the war in the Pacific seemed to be going definitely against Japan. She had suffered two considerable defeats in the Coral Sea and at Midway Island, and territory was regained from her for the first time when the Americans broke her hold upon some of the Solomon Islands. These defeats, however, have not impaired the offensive spirit of the Japanese, who have initiated a determined attempt to recover their position in the Solomons, and are preparing for a final assault upon Port Moresby, the Allied base in southern New Guinea. Their first effort to recapture the lost islands was defeated three weeks ago, but since then they have been causing a good deal of trouble—mainly in the form of "commando" raids on a small scale—to the American occupants, while they have lost no opportunity to shell and bomb the enemy installations. It is known that Japanese troops have been landed in the interior of the island of Guadalcanal, and, presumably, will reinforce their comrades who are at present in hiding, until the combined strength is sufficient for a counter-offensive. Meanwhile, Japanese patrols in New Guinea have thrust as far southwards as the village of Ioribaiwa, which is only 32 miles from Port Moresby. No "major activity" is taking place for the time being, but the defenders do not conceal their belief that the vital conflict is due to take place very soon. Having crossed the formidable Owen Stanley range, which was the natural barrier between themselves and Port Moresby, the Japanese probably will delay only long enough to bring their forces up to what they regard as the necessary strength for an assault, and will lose no time afterwards. Their path will not be smooth. The Allies are determined to defend Port Moresby—whose loss would provide the Japanese with an eminently valuable base for operations against Australia—to the last man, and it is reported from Melbourne that their troops have received strong reinforcements.

The Australians are not blind to their country's danger. They have recovered from the despondency that afflicted them during the spring—when it appeared as if nothing could stay the Japanese advance—but neither their Government nor their Press gives the slightest encouragement to over-confidence. Mr. Curtin delivered a stern warning last week against the threat to their communications with the United States, from which they derive the great bulk of their reinforcements and war material, and appealed for the strictest economy. General MacArthur has counselled his men against any under-estimation of their enemy's fighting qualities, while Mr. Fraser, the Prime Minister of New Zealand, says that his people will have to steel themselves for the next twelve months—which, as he believes, will cover the most critical period of the war. The Allies have a heavy task upon their hands. Many of their ocean routes have been cut by the successive occupations of the islands to the north and north-west of Australia, and the Japanese must be driven out of these islands before the pressure can be relaxed. On the other hand, Japanese losses at sea during recent months have been more severe than those of the Allies—especially in respect of aircraft-carriers, which are extremely important to the Japanese—and, so far as can be judged from the reports, the Allies seem to be establishing a superiority in the air. Japan is bound to strike the heaviest blow in her power within the very near future. If she can isolate Australia she need have little fear of any serious set-back. If not, a continually reinforced Australia will be a present and growing menace to her conquests and her aspirations throughout the whole of the Far East.

Eggs

Devotees of the Hay diet aver that the cult of the egg has been overdone. The white's main service is to produce fat; and the yolk, while all right in its way, does not constitute a considerable part of any egg. Nevertheless, most people find the egg an agreeable article of food, whether with bacon, in pies or puddings, or as the principal part of the dish, boiled, scrambled, fried or poached. In England, since rationing has reduced the adult's allowance to rather less than one egg per week, no article of food has been so popular. One of the results has been an enormous increase in the number of poultry keepers. Last year the total grew to over one million, and the number of birds in the country was more than doubled. While children under five years of age are entitled to more eggs than any hen normally lays in a year, an adult with a hen in his backyard has an excellent chance of receiving four times as many eggs as he might buy from his grocer. It has been calculated that household scraps usually are sufficient to maintain one hen for every member of the family, but the tendency in England has been to keep a greater number of hens than can be fed on legitimate waste, and it is feared that a portion of the food suitable for human consumption is finding its way to the hen-run. In an effort to equalise the positions of the backyard poultry-keeper and the rest of the egg-consuming community, and possibly with a view to the reduction of the hen population, a scheme recently has been introduced under which a ration of balancer-meal sufficient, with household scraps, to feed one hen may be obtained in exchange for an egg ration. So far this scheme has made no change in either the number of poultry or the consumption of balancer-meal; for the neighbours of the poultry-keeper in many cases have sacrificed their egg ration for meal and obtained in exchange, no doubt, more eggs than they otherwise would have been fortunate enough to procure. One of the troubles is that the domestic poultry-keeper has not sufficient waste from his own household to feed all the hens that he desires to keep for the benefit of himself and his neighbours, even with their contributions of balancer-meal; hence the suspicion that bread is finding its way to the chicken run. As others are believed to be misusing bread, a more stringent control of that commodity is being urged, particularly in urban areas.

OBITUARY

MR. ALFRED MILLER

The death occurred on Saturday at his residence, 3 Winton road, Leeson Park, Dublin, of Mr. Alfred Miller, O.B.E., former Registrar of the College of Surgeons, Ireland. Mr. Miller became associated with the College of Surgeons in 1908, as Secretary to the Committee of Management, and controlled the examinations held under the auspices of the Royal College of Physicians and Royal College of Surgeons. He was elected to the post on the resignation of Dr. Trevor Smith. Afterwards when Mr. George F. Blake, Registrar of the College of Surgeons, resigned Mr. Miller was unanimously appointed his successor. In 1913 the Superintendent of the School of Surgery resigned and Mr. Miller filled the post. He was Officer Commanding the O.T.C. during the last Great War, and was a member of the Zoological Society. He took a keen interest in all the College activities, and was instrumental in securing the Students' Sports Ground at Bird avenue, near Dundrum. Owing to ill health he had retired about four years ago.

REV. JAMES HUNTER

The Rev. James Hunter, M.A., who died at his residence in Belfast yesterday, was minister at Knock Presbyterian Church from 1890 until 1924. Three years later he charged certain professors of the Assembly College with heresy. The charge was not sustained at the Belfast Presbytery, and the General Assembly threw out the appeal. This caused Mr. Hunter to withdraw from the authority of the Assembly, and with some of his supporters he formed the Irish Evangelical Church.

Cinema Notes

BY OUR FILM CORRESPONDENT.

DOCTOR BROADWAY (Capitol) is the name given by his New York patients—a gallery of "characters" who are pure Damon Runyon—to the latest film personification of the Good Samaritan, young Dr. Timothy Kane, in which part the well-known Broadway actor, Macdonald Carey, makes an entirely creditable film début. He is kept very busy throughout, rescuing an attractive young blonde (Jean Phillips) from the legal consequences of a fake suicide-act, nine storeys up, and helping the gangster with a month to live—a fine performance this by Edward Cianelli—to do one square thing before he "coughs." J. Carrol Naish as the tailor who thought he had the doctor's measure, drastically shortens the gangster's last month; as a consequence the D.A. fastens on "Dr. Broadway," on the theory that "everybody thought Bluebeard a nice guy until they started digging in the cellar"; but it all comes right in the end. This is a clever, unpretentious, and entertaining little picture, full of amusing touches. Witness, when our favourite "dumb" friend, Warren Hymer, as the ingenious "Maxie," comes out of hiding after shooting the sartorially perfect tailor, saying with a shy grin of pure embarrassment: "Gee, Boss, it was a pity to spoil dem clothes."

The Men in Her Life (Carlton): One of the worst features of the Hollywood system is the way in which it assimilates the acting and producing talent of the world, and then quite frequently brings about its slow and systematic destruction. If you require examples, it "bought" Julien Duvivier, and his first production, "Lydia," was but a pale copy of the brilliant "Carnet de Bal," and soon we may see, I believe, "Moontide," a version of "Quai des Brumes," in which Jean Gabin completely falsifies his original acting masterpiece. Conrad Veidt, that most notable pupil of Reinhardt, and one of the finest of film actors, has since he went to Hollywood survived some gross errors of casting. He will, I think, also survive "The Men in Her Life," which could have been the best film in Dublin this week, and is merely the most disappointing. Everybody in it acts brilliantly, but their efforts are defeated by the mawkish sentimentality of the plot. If you like the Ballet, a final word: Veidt, as Stanislas Rosing, first husband of the ballerina (Loretta Young), drops dead after seeing her opening performance in New York.

The Fleet's In (Adelphi): As a film, this is a reasonably good floor show, because it is primarily a vehicle for songs and dances, and nobody is really going to worry about the shadowy background of a plot, as provided by shy William Holden and the exotic Lamour. One of the best items is a brilliant skit on ballroom dancing exhibitionists by Lorraine and Rognan, who switch, without a break in tempo, from an ultra graceful routine into a "jitterbug" dance. If you like "swing," the music is by America's saxophone king, Jimmy Dorsey, and his "boys"; if you do not, this is not your film anyway.

Broadway (Theatre Royal)—This film is treated as a biography of George Raft, and, after a nostalgic opening, it "flashes back" to a period fifteen years earlier, when he was just a "hoofer" in a Broadway cellar night club, with a partner with a misdirected enthusiasm for chasing the "big shots." For a film dealing with that lusty period of American history, the "Roaring 20's," it is curiously lacking in robustness, and only quickens its slow pace towards its close. The acting is good, and one of the best things in it is S. Z. Sakall's portrayal of the ingenious night-club proprietor, who, in the midst of many iniquities, protests that his conscience is "whiter than an angel's ghost." George Raft, incidentally, can wipe out fifteen years in film, but not in fact, and what is known as "a middle-age spread" prevents him from giving a technically convincing performance as a tap-dancer. He retains, however, his old mastery of the tango.

Lorna Doone (Astor). Selznick, of "Gone With the Wind" production fame, would have made something memorable of this R. D. Blackmore saga; from the hands of Basil Deane it resembles nothing more than a badly arranged, slow-moving, pageant play, which offers nothing but the occasional excellence of its small-part acting. John Loder plays "Girt Jan Ridd," and the name part is played by Victoria Hopper (who, of course, in private life is Mrs. Basil Deane). The programme is saved somewhat by another opportunity to see that magnificent Cavalcanti documentary film, "North Sea."

Gone With The Wind (Savoy) is the first film to be retained three weeks at this cinema.

One Foot in Heaven (Regal Rooms). Fredric March and Martha Scott at their acting best.

Son of Fury (Metropole). Dudley Digges's ability as an actor in a minor rôle steals this film from Tyrone's torso.

Woman of the Year (Grafton). Katharine Hepburn as an American Tabouis and Spencer Tracy as a husband with old-fashioned, but sound, ideas.

Mr. and Mrs. North (Pavilion, Dun Laoghaire).

The Ghost Goes West (Astoria). Thursday—"The Shanghai Gesture."

All that Money Can Buy (Regent, Blackrock). Thursday—"Here Comes Mr. Jordan" (two outstanding films, by the way).

Anna Karenina (Grand Central). Greta Garbo and Frederic March.

Saboteur, one of the finest studies in suspense yet filmed, comes to the Corinthian this week. The film, which tells of large-scale sabotage attempt on the American war effort, stars Robert Cummings and Priscilla Lane, and what is more important, is directed by Alfred Hitchcock, of "Rebecca" and "Suspicion" fame.

Rookies, the first and the best of the Abbott and Costello films, is re-issued this week at the Green Cinema. Also on the programme is another big re-issue—Danielle Darrieux and Douglas Fairbanks, jun., in "The Rage of Paris," one of the most delightful comedies of recent years.

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL

The Dean of Christ Church, Oxford, Very Rev. J. H. Lowe, D.D., who is in Ireland on a short visit, was the special preacher at the Morning and Afternoon Services in Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, yesterday. The attendance at the Morning Service included Sir John Maffey, United Kingdom Representative to Eire, and Sir John and Lady Keane. The Dean of Christ Church Cathedral (Rev. E. H. C. Lewis-Crosby, B.D.), Rev. R. J. Ross, M.A., and Rev. D. M. Carmody, B.A., took part in the Service.

At the Service in the afternoon Dean Lewis-Crosby conducted a special intercession. The attendance included Mr. Victor G. Davey, Royal Yugoslavia Consul, and Mrs. Cecil V. Murphy.

DEATHS.

BRENNAN (Ahascragh, Co. Galway)—At St. Cuan's Presbytery, Mrs. B. Brennan, relict of the late Henry Brennan, Cliffoney, Co. Sligo, mother of Very Rev. Malachy Canon Brennan, and Very Rev. John Brennan, Brooklyn, U.S.A. R.I.P. Solemn Requiem Mass at Ahascragh Church to-morrow (Tuesday), 11.30 (summer time). Funeral immediately afterwards to Caltra Cemetery.

DARRAGH—September 18, 1942, at his residence, The Villa, Dungannon, William Henry Darragh, J.P., beloved husband of Beda Darragh. Funeral private. No flowers, please.

LONDON LETTER

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

APPARENTLY the people of Britain are not over fond of cheese. Grocers have been complaining that they have big stocks of cheese because people are not using their rations. Housewives, on the other hand, say that the ration of half a pound of cheese per head per week takes a lot of eating, chiefly because the cheese will not keep. Up to a couple of months ago the allowance was only a quarter of a pound per week, but when certain other foods were taken off the ration the quantity of cheese was doubled to make up for them in nutritive value, and the public were urged by the Food Minister to eat more of it. The Ministry's experts have been working on a number of experimental dishes which they hope will be adopted in order to take advantage of the huge stores of cheese.

Old Hats as New

The Board of Trade is expected to come down heavily on the war-time hat racket. Dealers are making house-to-house collections of old felt hats, for which they pay a few pence, and the hats then are stripped, dyed, remodelled and sold as new headgear. Some of the old hats—bought for threepence or fourpence—are turned into "exclusive" models, and sold in the West End at five or six guineas apiece. The trouble is that the shortage of material, most of which formerly was imported, has compelled manufacturers to buy the old hats from the dealers. Manufacturers have no choice, as without the reconditioned models they would have to go out of business. Many reputable traders have protested, and it is expected that some official action will be taken.

Waste Paper

Dublin people might get some ideas from London in the matter of collecting waste paper. An enthusiastic gardener had such a large crop of tomatoes this year that he decided to let his friends and neighbours have the benefit of them and at the same time to help his local paper-saving campaign. His charge for a pound of tomatoes is four large books or a couple of ledgers, or four pounds weight of waste paper. In this way he collected nearly four hundred lbs. of paper last week. Another man who lives in the same district has spent a lot of his life-time in the East. Now he has turned a room in his house into miniature museum, and for an entry fee of one large pile of paper his collection of Eastern treasures can be seen. In one evening recently he took so much paper in this way that he had to send for the local Boy Scouts, who took the "admission charges" away in two large handcarts.

Food from Lineside

One British railway company is doing its best to encourage people to take war-time allotments of land on the lines embankments and has instructed all its stationmasters that the public is to be given every assistance in making a choice. This company, the L.M.S., already has so many plots of land under cultivation that if they were placed end to end they would equal a 30 ft wide railway track extending for more than 300 miles. The company, however, is ambitious in the matter of embankment cultivation. Its eventual aim is to extend the distance for more than 700 miles from Euston to Thurso, the most northerly point of the system. Recently the company offered free grass off the embankments to anyone who cared to take it away at his own cost. Nearly one thousand people availed themselves of the offer.

Fire Watching

The report that a system of fire-watching might be developed in Dublin makes it opportune to mention the system as it works in London. Every person not over 65 engaged in civilian duty in Britain must do spells of fire-watching duty. Fire-watchers may, of course, take turns at sleeping, and in most business houses and factories sleeping accommodation is provided. Fire-watchers get a subsistence allowance of 3s. to 4s. 6d. per night, according to the length of the spell of duty. Up to recently fire-watch duty was confined to men, but women also now must serve, and for this purpose they have now been ordered to register.

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

K.K.K.

Nowadays the Ku Klux Klan never is mentioned. I was talking with some men recently who never had heard of it. Yet, twenty years ago it was very much in the news. There actually was a scheme to establish branches in England.

However, as its more discerning critics forecast, it broke under its own weight, being "unsound at the bottom, and uninformed and ignorant at the top." It was a secret society, 100 per cent. American, anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic. Its members wore hooded costumes, and while most of them were attracted to it for the innocent, though childish, reasons that attract Americans to all sorts of funny societies, there were rougher elements who got outside the law in their activities.

The K.K.K. was a profitable concern for some. Membership was peddled by sales managers, just like safety razors or popular educators might be sold. There was an initial fee of ten dollars, which was divided among the sales manager (or King Kleagle), the actual salesman (or Kleagle) and the headquarters at Atlanta, the city which is featured in "Gone With the Wind."

Just after the Civil War there was an earlier Klan, which existed to clean up desperadoes and freed negroes who got out of hand.

Joan Hammond

There were no two opinions in Dublin last week about Joan Hammond—all agreed that her singing was magnificent.

Miss Hammond is not only a great soprano, but a very interesting woman. She has sung in every European country except Spain, and that omission arose through the Civil War.

One of the most interesting items of her career is that Miss Hammond is actually the discovery of an Irish woman; for it was Lady Gowrie, the former Miss Zara Pollock, of Galway, and now wife of the Governor-General of Australia, who discovered her, and brought her to sing at Government House. Later the young Australian girl was sent to Italy to complete her training, and since then her triumph has been complete.

I do not know if anyone noticed her wig in the part of Madam Butterfly, but I can inform you that it is a real Japanese wig, brought by her mother from Japan.

Men in Danger

According to an American insurance company, men are more likely to injure themselves at home than are women. They tumble off ladders, roofs and porches, falling being the principal cause of deaths among men at home.

Gas poisoning is another source of frequent fatalities, a surprisingly large number of the men who suffer that way having attempted to repair leaks when not strictly sober. Men also kill themselves with tools and with guns which they have omitted to unload before cleaning.

Women don't fall about much, it seems, but they are more prone to burn themselves fatally. Burning, indeed, is the only type of home accident in which deaths among women are the more numerous.

Godiva

A correspondent has pointed out a mistake in a recent reference to the filly Godiva. I referred the matter to our sporting department, which gave me the following note:—

It is remarkable how often Godiva is mentioned as "unbeaten." Only a few weeks ago one of the leading racing journalists in America made the same mistake. Probably those who speak or write thus are thinking of her as an unbeaten three-year-old. At that age she won the 1,000 Guineas, Oaks Trial Plate and New Oaks.

As a two-year-old she won three races, was left at the post in another, and finished third to Djebel and Tant Mieux in the Middle Park Stakes. That defeat, however, does not tarnish very seriously her reputation as (to quote V. R. Orchard in "The Bloodstock Breeders' Review") one of our really outstanding fillies since the last war.

She was by Hyperion out of Carpet Slipper, and, therefore, a half-sister to Windsor Slipper and a full-sister to the recent arrival, which is now at Brownstown Stud.

W.A.A.M.A.

SOME NEW MEMBERS

George Bernard Shaw, Sean O'Casey and Paul Vincent Carroll are among the authors who recently have joined the W.A.A.M.A. Writers' Guild, the annual general meeting of which was held in Jury's Hotel last Friday night.

Mr. Jonathan Hanaghan moved the acceptance of the honorary secretary's report, which referred to the Guild's new membership arrangement with the Incorporated Society of Authors, Playwrights and Composers. The report also recorded work done in connection with the listing and classification of literary works and rates of payment. Guild membership, it stated, was being steadily increased. New members of the 1942-43 committee were:—J. McCann, T.D.; F. Carney, J. J. Hayes, S. Rynne, J. Hanaghan and D. Ryan.

After a short discussion on amendments to the Guild Constitution, designed to increase the Guild's automony, the meeting closed.

Committee members present included:—Mr. D. J. Giltinan (in the chair), N. Bray, honorary secretary; Miss A. M. P. Smithson and Messrs. Sean O Faolain, M. Farrell, J. B. O'Sullivan, S. Piondar, Frank Carney and J. B. O'Sullivan.

CARDINAL IN DROGHEDA

HOSPITAL CEREMONY

His Eminence Cardinal MacRory blessed and opened the new wing of Our Lady of Lourdes Hospital, Beechgrove, Drogheda, yesterday. The Nuncio Apostolic, Most Rev. Dr. Pascal Robinson; Mgr. Enrici and Mr. Frank Aiken, Minister for Defensive Measures, attended.

The Rev. J. F. Stokes, Adm., preached, and paid tribute to the work of the Medical Missionaries of Mary. Less than three years ago, he said, there was neither convent, novitiate nor hospital on that spot, and now there was an ideal training ground for an endless stream of Medical Missionaries. It was an eloquent tribute to the vision and courage of Mother Martin and her associates, and what had been so far accomplished had been done solely by charity.

Right Rev. Mgr. O'Callaghan, P.P., V.G., St. Peter's, Drogheda, on behalf of the Medical Missionaries, thanked the Cardinal and others.

Two young firemen, Samuel Libert, of Manchester, who joined the brigade only during the past fortnight, and Walter J. Jackson, died in a fire at a Glasgow factory on Saturday night when a retaining wall fell into a narrow passage.

DR. STARKIE AND THE ABBEY

Professor Walter Starkie, who leaves for London to-day on his way back to Madrid, spoke of his resignation from the Board of the Abbey Theatre to an Irish Times reporter last night. He realised, he said, that his long absence made it difficult for him to continue on the Board of the theatre, "but," he added, "I do not see anything incompatible with my membership on the Board, and my work in Spain, which is largely cultural. I have done a lot for the Abbey Theatre in Madrid, and will continue to do so."

Newell's Advertising — is the simple Truth

Frank words to Newells' Staff

YOUR management takes this unusual means to address you because, since we of Newells are faithful servants of the Public, we need have no secrets from them. Honesty, the foundation principle of this business, as you so well know, implies Candour, too.

A VEXING problem confronts the woman of to-day, and we've taken a bold step to solve it for her.

DAINTY Frocks, Coats and Lingerie; lovely things for kiddies; smart Suits, fitting Corsetry, Gowns, Blouses, Stockings—all these things are as desirable and necessary as ever. The trouble is that money, nowadays, does not go far.

THIS is what we've done about it: We have cut all prices by a very substantial percentage in relation to costs.

Our Slogan, "The Best for Less," is being clearly proved by every garment we sell!

WOMEN are making comparisons and talking about us. Every day sees more and more eager new faces at our counters—ever-increasing demands on your patience, tact, energy and charm.

PLEASE continue to meet them in the manner which has already distinguished you . . . willingly, cheerfully, unobtrusively. . . .

LET'S deserve our Success!

Why I changed TO MINER'S LIQUID MAKE UP — by a NURSE

Not a chance of my remaking my face while on duty so I turned to Miner's Liquid Make Up. Its protective satin-smooth foundation keeps my skin flawless and in matt perfection all the day from early morning—that's the one thing I cannot get from any other preparation. There's nothing like this marvellous foundation . . . never a shine or streaky smear, and what's more—Miner's is available in a shade to match my particular skin-tone. It's the perfect powder base.
